Bath, Somerset

CHALLENGES

Royds Withy King were on the market for a new provider to address existing challenges surrounding manual workload, complicated workflows, and limited training services. With a growing team, Royds Withy King needed a tailored system with:

1

2

Greater access to support, to maximise the potential of their system

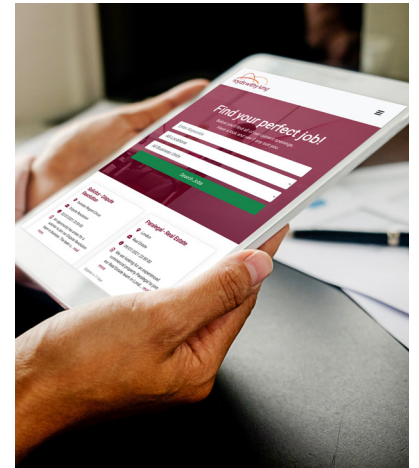

SOLUTION

With a tight implementation turnaround, the networkx Implementations Team supported Royds Withy King to move across to a tailored networkx solution, seamlessly integrating with their IRIS Cascade HR software. The direct integration not only streamlines the process for Royds Withy King, but has improved efficiencies, reduced the manual workload and improved the accuracy throughout the recruitment process, feeding into the HR system.

networkx worked with Royds Withy King to ensure all questions were responded to in a timely manner and that open communication lines were established early on. This ensured a smooth transition and limited any delays with such a short turnaround project. As part of this, the networkx Implementations Team utilised our bespoke project management tool to showcase progress, set milestones and deliver the support and training required so that Royds Withy King could have total confidence and peace of mind in the project delivery being met and their team having the knowledge to utilise the software from the get go.

The modular nature of the networkx software played to the needs of Royds Withy King, with the intuitive dashboards and ease of use meaning the entire team could easily adapt to using their new system, once live. Further, the introduction of onboarding and reporting, removed repetitive tasks, enabling the team to concentrate on more important tasks with regards to live and upcoming recruitment initiatives.

INNOVATE RECRUITMENT

“ From our experience so far, networkx are already head and shoulders above our experience with previous systems. We have been really impressed with the speed and firm commitment of delivery, alongside great in-house training and support functions. Communication has been brilliant!

One thing that really stood out for us at Royds Withy King, was how personable everybody in the business has been. The interaction, responsiveness and overall desire to get to know us as a business and what we need has made for not only a seamless experience moving across to networkx, but an enjoyable one too. It is very rare the culture is so transparent and transcends across all the individual client touchpoints, but we have had a great experience with networkx.

We are incredibly happy to be partnering and working towards the next milestones with networkx. Their dedication and commitment so far means I have no doubt they will honour their word and our system will continue to successfully evolve alongside our business growth.
