Accounted For: Creating a digital practice

Our top listened to podcast this year was our 'Creating a Digital Practice' podcast.

The accountancy sector has seen a wave of new, tech-savvy, market entrants that are threatening the bread and butter of more established practices.

In this episode, Steve Cox and Jim Scott explore this phenomenon and delve into how practices can evolve, adapt and embrace change to compete in the changing landscape.

Top Events

We had an absolute blast this year at Accountex London! Not only did we get to see the whole accountancy community back again after the restrictions of Covid-19, but we hosted our best afterparty yet! Our VIP's and customers were accompanied by Chris Moyles for a boat party on the Thames.

Come and see us at Accountex in 2023, we want to make next year even better than the last.

Trust Pilot

"I have only just started using IRIS Accounts Production and my experience with the software and support team have been good. There is still a lot to learn to enable me to derive the full benefit of the software. However, so far (after less than a week) it has been easy to use, and I have been able to produce statutory accounts."

- Daniel, October 2022

Accountants! Know your worth. Price for your value and advice

Our 'Accountants! Know your worth' blog was our top this year.

Our research suggests that 1 in 3 accountants are finding that clients are expecting them to deliver advisory services, on top of day-to-day compliance work, without paying for it.

Read this blog to find out our advice on pricing. Steve Cox talks through how to deal with price increases, how to build a price book for advisory and the holy trinity of pricing.

IRIS Elements launch

Earlier in the year, we launched IRIS Elements- the first end-to-end, integrated, MTD-ready cloud accounting solution on the market. We worked incredibly hard to make this a reality, and to solve the software patchwork problems accountants face. IRIS Elements is currently the best option for smaller practices. Our focus is to evolve IRIS Elements with key updates, and to concentrate on the complex requirements of medium to large practices because we want Elements to be a solution for everyone!

MTD update

The delay is official. The mandate of MTD for ITSA will now be introduced from April 2026, with businesses, self-employed individuals, and landlords with income over £50,000 mandated to join first. Those with income over £30,000 will be mandated from April 2027.

The government understands the challenging economic environment businesses and self-employed individuals are facing so they have announced more time to prepare so they can adapt to the new ways of working.

IRIS Accountancy Suite

"IRIS is a key part of our practice, it's as important as any staff member. Without IRIS we can't function and the practice itself would be a different place. Going back to the old days pre IRIS which I can just about remember, it was hard work"

- Chris Kember, Owner, Sinden Thackeray Partnership
