Accountancy firm puts hybrid working at the heart of its practice

Based in the heart of middle England, tgfp relies on 60 colleagues to add value to its extensive range of clients. With an evolved way of working, based on a 15-year IRIS partnership, tgfp turned to IRIS to support team members in a hybrid working approach; whether at home or in the office. They told us, "IRIS offers us a complete solution for working securely and successfully from anywhere, with innovative software and a team who support us when we need it. That's why we've been using IRIS software for over 15 years and will continue to do so."

How IRIS Elements is solving the accounting industry's patchwork problem

For many accountancy practices, cloud software is firmly on the to-do list, and with good reason.

However, despite all attempts to adapt, Jonathan Priestley, VP of Product Marketing at IRIS, says many practices are suffering from a software 'patchwork problem' as they seek to embrace cloud technology.

In the second of two articles about IRIS Elements, we examine how IRIS Elements is addressing the needs of a changing industry, supporting the adoption of cloud and what forces will shape accountancy in the near future.

Power Accountants reveals secret element that puts them ahead of the curve

With powerful tech behind them, in just three years, Power Accountants has built up a reputation for providing excellent advice and first-class service to their business and personal clients. As one of the first customers to come on board with IRIS Elements, we caught up with them recently to hear how things were going. They told us, "One of the best things about IRIS Elements is that it's constantly evolving. We've already seen enhancements and new features. I've fed back to the product team about things that would improve the software for our practice and things have already been implemented as a result."
